

The Dewyletter

April 2026

Telling a semi-humble fool's tale since 2025!

Updates From Dewy

Today is Good Friday, a day to remember sacrifices that have been made for our sake. If you celebrate, I'm wishing you a blessed holiday and if you don't, I'm wishing you a blessed weekend.

Otherwise, have been just plugging along. I've had a bit of a heavier than usual mental load right now, but that's not your burden to carry.

This Past Month on the Blog and Show

The blog has covered a variety of topics, from an analysis of what really makes the book 1984 existentially dreadful in spite of having a "happy ending", a roast of someone who was asking for it, a terrible restaurant review for a ghost kitchen, and a mild confession about my events.

The show was in reruns for March, so nothing new there.
