Updates From Dewy

Hope everyone is having as good a summer as I have. It's had its challenges, but overall has been great. And I don't just say that as the person with a smile always on their face. Well, I also say it as that person. It's your greatest asset, you know. Keeps your friends inspired, your enemies guessing, and ensures that no matter what life throws at you, it will be on your terms. And the more genuine the smile, the more pronounced that effect.

This Past Month on the Blog and Show

Still on that break for both the blog and the show. Planning on coming back on September 25 for both. Stay tuned! Should be some great kick-off posts and shows.

Also, I am also happy to announce that my Radio Demon in Residence shows are now going to be explicitly a potential date (see the added question mark?). The idea is that I'll be there once a month, most times on the day I say I will, but sometimes I won't. If you come to a day I said I'd be there and I'm not there, you've won a prize! Just send me a timestamped photo, receipt, or other proof of attendance and I'll get you your prize.

Your Regularly Scheduled Dewy (Repeating Events)

Tarot is on pause for now. Interested in hosting? Just let me know!
If you need to schedule a reading for yourself, reach out to me directly.

The Radio Demon in Residence? at RPM Underground (Manhattan, NY): August 23 from 5-?

Dewy's Ones and Dones (One Time Events)

You remember that super avant-garde play called MoonBodies I was talking about last month? Well, we are going to be doing productions beyond a simple reading this month! Come catch MoonBodies at LimeFest at The Tank (312 W 36th St., Manhattan, NY) on August 13 at 9:30 PM or at The Makers' Ensemble (281 N. 7th St., Brooklyn, NY) on August 20, 21, and 22 at 8:00 PM! Go to @spacecowgirlproductions on Insta for tickets (or just show up).

Shameless Dewy Plugs

As promised, the Act 1 commentary video went up. But I feel like there was so much I left out that I need to do another. Stay tuned!

Schmoopy Schmoopy Doopy,
